LONE BANK BANDIT CAPTURED

BODY FOUND IN FROZEN CAR

LINDSAY, June 18.—The body of a man was discovered in the ice compartment of a refrigerator car sidetracked at the El Mirador packing house, here today.

The body was found only in a cap and a pair of shoes, and the hands and feet appeared to have been tied together. Death was apparently due to strangulation. Coroner J. M. Hadley declared. He reported that the man had been dead for about 30 days.

The body had been well preserved by the coldness of the car, Coroner Hadley declared.

The death was one of a string of empties that had been shunted to the packing plant Sunday, coming there from Fresno.

Belief was expressed that the man had been murdered in some other town and that the body had been placed in the car. Authorities are attempting to trace the route of the car.

Workmen, who were preparing to fill the ice compartment prior to loading the car, discovered the body.

$5000 LOOT FOUND IN CAR

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., June 18.—(U.P.)—Arthur Thomas, 19, was captured here late today and identified as the man who held up the Royal Bank of Canada this morning and escaped with $5000.

F. J. Nichell, clothing merchant, who had heard of the robbery, became suspicious when the bandit ordered a complete change of clothing. He called officers who took Thomas to the police station where he was later identified by bank officials who came to Vancouver for that purpose.

Most of the $5000 which the young highwayman had obtained in his cool robbery was found in a stolen automobile in which he had made his getaway from Vancouver.

BANDIT AWAITING COMING OF EMPLOYEES
VANCOUVER, B. C., June 18.—(U.P.)—Provincial police late today were searching for a bandit who held up and robbed the Royal Bank of Canada of $5000.

The bandit, who appeared calm and collected, is believed to have secreted himself in the bank during the night and waited for the arrival of the institution's employees.

Five members of the bank's staff arrived for work between 8:30 and 9 a. m. As rapidly as they came in the bandit seized and bound them and laid them in cramped positions behind a counter, cautioning them not to make a noise, as "there was a bill standing outside and that he did not want to have to bother to tie him up too," the victims related to police.

Shortly after nine, he walked into the vault, took the money, wished everyone a pleasant day, and departed.

The five victims were found when a sixth member of the bank's staff arrived for work.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—UP.—Three persons suspected of participation in numerous recent bank robberies on the Pacific coast, one of them a woman, were taken into custody after police had raided an elaborately furnished apartment here tonight.

Those arrested gave names of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Sampson and Edman McNabb.

Police asserted they are wanted in Los Angeles, from which city came information to aid their apprehension. The authorities alleged they used the yacht "Sovereign" in their operations.

A search of the apartment revealed, according to police, the following:

A rifle with silencer several revolvers and a shotgun capable of discharging tear gas bombs. A bag containing currency, believed to have been taken from various banks.

A children's bank of the Berkeley branch of the Bank of America, which was robbed of $18,000 recently.

Both of the men taken to jail are former convicts.

Sampson, records disclosed, has been convicted as a bigamist and for robbing the Western States bank in Los Angeles of $1000 in 1923.

CAPTAIN HOLDS TO DERELICT

ASTORIA, Ore., June 18.—UP.—Because of his refusal to be taken from the wreck of the $800 steel freighter Upa when the last survivors were taken off Monday, Captain Louis Johnson, commander of the vessel, faces still another night on the derelict, being pounded by the waves of the north Pacific.

Reports from Cape Disappointment coast guard station to Captain Gorman of the coast guard cutter Redwing this afternoon, indicated that any attempt to reach Captain Johnson would be impossible before tomorrow morning.

A strong westerly gale is sending huge seas pouring over the vessel's grounded stern portion. It would be impossible for small boats to move in the sea now thundering about the powerless hulk resting on ground half a mile off shore near North Head, Wash.

Captain Johnson, who bellowed his refusal to come ashore as he looked down at coast guardsmen rescuing the other members of the crew Monday, was believed ready to abandon the wreck today. He was flying a pennant from the flag mast at the stern of the wreck, and although its meaning could not be deciphered by watchers, they took it as a signal showing his willingness to be taken from the awaying hulk before she breaks up.

Increase In County Traffic Force Asked

MARTINEZ, June 18.—Traffic Captain George Belon has made a recommendation for double the number of traffic officers in Contra Costa county when the state assumes direct control of all traffic police in California. Laws leading to the taking over of the traffic police by the state were passed by the last legislature.

There are now seven traffic officers under the jurisdiction of Belon who asks that six men be added to the force. In the recommendation Belon asks that two of the officers be assigned to day duty and four be placed on the night patrol. He favors the night patrol traveling in pairs with cars.

All applications for positions on the force must be filed with the county supervisors, according to information received from the state department of motor vehicles. Howard Hornsby, city traffic officer of Pittsburg, today filed his application with the supervisors.

Belon in asking for additional members of the force declares that increasing traffic in the county requires a larger force.

Clews Decrease In Tallman Hunt

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—UP.—Excitement created by the intensive search for William Loren Tallman, 23, suspect in the Los Angeles murder of Mrs. Virginia Patts, continued to abate today as 12 days had passed without trace of the youth.

Police officials expressed hope that a decrease in publicity that attended Tallman's strange disappearance and flight would make him less cautious and result in his apprehension.

There was a constant decrease in the number of clews offered to officers by residents of the city who claimed they thought they knew where the missing man was.

30 Stills Sold By County For Junk

MARTINEZ, June 17.—More than 30 stills, the product of two years work by the Contra Costa county dry squad, together with coils and other appurtenances for the manufacture of liquor, were sold today to junk dealer.

Stills of all shapes and sizes, ranging from one that could be carried in a shoe box to another as large as a war-hub, were included in the lot.

To make sure that the stills would not be used again to make the forbidden brew, prohibition operatives smashed holes in each plant and cut coils and other equipment into small bits.

Clyde Laird, chief of the county prohibition squad, explained that the cleanup was made because all available storage space is crowded to the limit and there was no room for possible future storage.

The train is wrecked and Travis rescues Marie. The three friends fight over her. She is declared, Marie, Travis and Al escape to Paris. Marie is unconscious." In the days of Noah, Japheth and Japheth's, Noah's son, talk of the prophesied flood.

CHAPTER XV.—Continued
As they stood there a slight movement in the underbrush caught his attention. He released the girl and looked again, and then he saw a hand and arm cautiously stealing around the bushes and dragging back the wine skin. With a quick jump he had parted the shrubbery and caught hold of his brother, Ham, just lifting the container to his lips.

"Look here, that's mine," he laughed, snatching the wine skin.

"What are you doing here, anyhow?"

"I came looking for you," Ham returned.

"Well, what's happened now?"

"Nothing more than usual. Father's looking all over for you. He wants you to come and help work on the ark. He's getting worried. And mother said you hadn't counted the animals yet."

"Oh, I forgot about that. But it's easy enough," Japheth laughed. "I can get most of them rounded up when I want them. All right, you run along and tell father I'll be there in two shakes of a lamb's tail."

All right," Ham disappeared again amidst the underbrush.

"I must go now, dear, and don't worry," Japheth told Miriam. "Remember, whatever happens, we'll be together." He picked up the trick himself. But he's tired that now. And the dancing and the musicians—well, he even sees them!"

"Have you thought of the man up on the hill? The night coming in so fast! We're waiting for a little while to stir up His Majesty's interest."

"Yes, and probably give him off his nervous fits and throff his head, and then we'll Elhim coming in to sacrifice gods and restore him to health—we'd be worse off than before."

"Oh, I don't know." The man returned. "You're bad off now—you can't be much good if you start out on expedition for..."

"His Majesty said he has some wine—a special kind comes from these hills." Reminded of his companion's question, he asked him, "Do you ask me, I think it was of Elhim's to get me out of town for a while, so that he could see one of his little talks with..."

"Well, we might try the matter anyhow, if you can get over those foibles. There's no harm in the horses came to a jerking halt at the gate of the castle."

"Took!" He pointed to the who had been coming down road. "Did you ever see so quiet so beautiful as that?" Miriam caught a glimpse of the body up to the girl, who turned and faced him proudly.

"Kadmon," he addressed friend. "I believe our secretary for the wine. Here is becoming intoxicating that the juice is rarest grape."

With a quick motion he seized the elf in his arms, threw across the saddle despite screams and her efforts to self. He leapt to his feet called to the men to follow, they rushed down the hill. But the incident was not witness. For, emerging from underbrushes, was the man Japheth. She stood terror-stricken, holding up her hands to do anything. She saw wif horsemen flash past her, the girl with them. And last sound died away she quickly and the guard riding top where Japheth worked

CHAPTER XVI.
The great marble pool spread cool length across the room named Hall of the Baths. At the fountain sent jets of water high into the air to break tter a myriad-colored foam back again, necking their depths below. All around the pool were the olive women of the harem. Some about, their oiled and scented gleaming dusky against marble walls. Some lay on the narrow, low stretching their rounded limbs. By all watched with less anxious eyes the light came slowly up the steps bath.

Miriam, her long, red hair half covering, half revealing the loveliness of her face, sat patiently, looking about. But the Mistress of the wizen old woman, hard as steel and bone, was already having a pole over the wall and bearing her off to another corner of the room.

Now the young slaves w her, their arms encircling pairs of perfumed and adorned rounded fingers and tender hands covered her, smoothly but firmly theointing her skin. Some way ahead, one linen, worked of the colors of the flower fields and rich with st golden charades and wgolden chain stones, and plain gold chimes and wrists.

The slaves drew back their hangings that lead into the chamber of the audience of the King. And then the of the Baths issued a shamed, and the girl was obeyed, walking with the slave toward the rear door.

As she entered she saw in the centre of the chamman who had hung her horse and borne her awapd.

"You've done very well today," the Mistress of the Baths, whose bow led at of approval of the audieny.

With a gesture he dism woman and the slaves.

For a few moments the counsellor watched the gha of perfume and adorne

"Ah, and so we meet bowed in a sort of meekness. Well, and do you like it, you're here?" he quesied in the room and the general.

"But I don't want to want to go home," Miriam up, her eyes filling with tears.

Wineskin and started through the underbrush in the trail of his brother.

Slowly Miriam took up the bowl in which she had brought Japheth's midday meal and stared down the slope, thinking. In her absorption she did not notice a group of horsemens coming along the flat plain and starting up the road.

The horsemen, headed by Repham, were going at a slow pace, as though the heat of the sultry day precluded any fast riding. But in reality Repham was talking in guardedly to his friend who rode by his side.

"Well, I don't know what to do," he was saying to the military looking personage. "But something's got to be done. His Majesty's getting worse and worse every day. Nothing seems to please him any more. Nothing amuses him. And Enim is growing more and more in favor. If this keeps on, we'll all have to look out for our heads!"

"But you, his counselor, can't you think of anything that would distract his attention?" The military man frowned. Their cause was a common one. They both felt "I've thought until I'm tired," Repham returned with some asperity. "He won't look at the starved prisoners any more—that was my idea, you remember. And he used to enjoy it so much. Then I got some leopard cubs for him to play with—with of course I had them all trained beforehand—but we pretended that he had turned the"

LETTER TO END
RUN HERE
TONIGHT

To the weird piping of Chinese flutes is caught a strange and sinister battle in “The Letter.”
Jeanne Eagles’ gripping all-talking picture for Paramount showing at the Fox California for the last time tonight.

A shaming cobra and a darting mongoose are the principals in this odd fight staged in one of the lowest dives of Singapore—and watched breathlessly by Chinese dancing girls, bland-eyed Orientals, and men who sail the seas of the earth.

And while the cobra and the mongoose engage in their death battle, enters the brothel. She has come after the letter—the letter that will hang her or set her free.

In “The Letter” you will see the duel of wit between a white woman and a beautiful Chinese—both in love with the same man, both hating one another both fighting for a sheet of paper and a few scrawled words.

“The Letter” is real drama, tense, naked, climaxed so surprisingly that it stands alone for sheer daring in the picture world.

Miss Eagles is the pet on who created “Sadie Thompson.” “Rain” See the character she creates in this second play by the same author, Somerset Maugham.

NEW TALKIE TO OPEN AT THE CALIFORNIA

Bobby Watson, star of musical stage and vaudeville credits the years he spent touring the middle west astride the rumble seat of a show wagon with winning him his first big part in the talkies. Bobby bows in as a leading man of the screen at the Fox California tomorrow with the opening of RKO's “Syncopation.”

“To get a job with a medicine show,” explains Bobby, “you had to be a one-man circus. You were your own supporting cast and stage staff. You had to be able to sing, dance, play a concert, drive a team of mules, double in blackface and preach a sermon.”

“It's the same thing with the talkies. An actor must be able to act, even the acrobats must speak English. To get a job as a leading man you have to pass tests in voice, grammar, profile and moral turpitude.”

Watson foresees an era of versatility on the screen, pointing to “Syncopation” as his proof. Every principal member of the cast contributes more than the straight dramatic talent, the only requisite hitherto of the screen player.
Fred Waring plays and directs his orchestra; Morton Downey sings; Dorothy Lee gives a comedy song number; Barbara Bennett, Leon Barre and Watson are seen in head lined dances.

Watson plays the part of Benny Darrel, the hooper of Gene Markey's story.

Captain Lash
To Open At Richmond Today

A tale of the sea, of seamen, and of a siren is unfolded in “Captain Lash,” Fox Film starring Victor McLaglen, which opens at the Fox Richmond Theater today.

McLaglen from his palmy days of “What Price Glory” and “Loves of Carmen,” is an especial favorite locally. Fox has provided him with an ideal vehicle, in “Captain Lash,” and a director, John G. Hyndman, who recently produced the sensational success, “Mother Knows Best” from Edna Ferber's story. “Captain Lash” reems with exciting situation and with moments of comedy, provided by McLaglen and his pal, Cocky, played by Clyde Cook.

DAKS DEFEAT INDIANS IN FIRST

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—UP
—New interest in the Pacific Coast league race was pronounced tonight after the second place
San Francisco Seals had trounced
the league leading San Francisco Missions and Oakland, in third position, was only six games behind the Missions.

The Seals, anxious to win six out of the seven games to be played this week and capture first place, completely outclassed their opponents in the first contest. When Donovan, Seal center fielder, hit a home run with the bases loaded in the seventh inning he climaxed the encounter and helped make the final score 15 to 3 in favor of the Seals.

Oakland scored once in the ninth inning to break a one to one tie and beat Seattle, 2 to 1, to stay three games behind the Seals. Dacia, Oakland pitcher, allowed only three hits.

Hollywood almost tumbled Los Angeles out of the first division
by beating the Angels, 6 to 4, scoring two runs in the ninth inning to break a tie.

DRY SLAYING DEPLORED BY HOOVER

WASHINGTON, June 18.—UP—The government's attitude toward prohibition enforcement, as revealed today under pressure of protests regarding fatal shootings, is that taking of life is deplored and to be avoided if humanly possible, but that efforts to suppress liquor traffic must go forward.

President Hoover, in answer to inquiries from the press today, said he deplored the taking of life, but he urged citizens on the border to assist the government in efforts to suppress international law violators, to whom he traces current enforcement troubles.

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Lowman rejected suggestions that federal agents be disarmed to prevent fatalities, saying that professional liquor violators were degenerate men and that the government could not leave its officers without means of self-defense.

The Senate turned to the diplomatic liquor situation today by adopting a resolution by Caraway, Dem., Ark., calling upon Washington police authorities for a list of diplomats who had been arrested or warned for driving while drunk. The request was the outgrowth of an episode involving a member of the Turkish Embassy staff.

Even as Congress prepared to suspend business, however, there came a flare back from the western Republican group which waged a bitter, but losing, fight for the debenture, over President Hoover's failure to submit his farm board to the Senate before the recess. Its members must be confirmed by the Senate.

Senator Borah of Idaho, President Hoover's chief campaigner, expressed his dissatisfaction.
“It is very unfortunate indeed,” he said, “that we are going to recess without the presidents appointment of the farm board.
It is the most important board appointed for a long time and Congress should look into its appointment.”

The argument was advanced today that if any member should prove objectionable, it would be difficult to defeat his confirmation once he is in office. The Senate will not return or two months, August 19. During that time such an objectionable member, it was explained, would be firmly entrenched in office.

GRAPE RAISERS SEEK MARKET IN SOUTH

SACRAMENTO, June 18.—Grape growers in California are evidencing much interest in the departure Saturday of two trade scouts into South America for the purpose of securing new markets for California produce.

Data compiled by the Federal government shows that while Brazil imports more grapes than the entire Orient, California grapes are practically unknown in those markets. This is due, it is explained, to the lack of shipping facilities and the failure of California to produce the market.

Large quantities of grapes are imported by the South American countries for wine making.

Assemblyman Van Bernard of Butte City, and Dudley Moulton, horticultural commissioner of San Francisco County, trade scouts being sent by the Sacramento Region Citizens' council, will be guests of honor Friday night at a banquet held in San Francisco.

The entire expedition is being made at practically no cost to the council. The General Steamship corporation is providing transportation and subsistence during the cruise, and San Francisco is giving the services of the county horticultural commissioner. Bernard is contributing his services to the council's project without cost.

R. R. Commission Fixes Power Plant Prices

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—UP—Precedent established in Los Angeles was followed today by the State Railroad commission here in fixing prices to be paid by the city of San Francisco to the Great Western Power company and the Pacific Gas and Electric company for their local systems.

Prices fixed today by the commission for the electric systems of the two companies were $11,455,000 for the Great Western Power and $26,685,000 for the Pacific Gas and Electric.

Both companies claimed an award in excess of twice the amounts granted, basing their claims upon the loss of net revenue which they would suffer through the taking away of their property and business in San Francisco.

Following the precedent established in a similar application of the City of Los Angeles for fixing prices in portions of the system of the Southern California Edison company, located on territory recently annexed to the city, the commission fixed the prices granted today with regard only to physical value of the systems with an additional allowance for the value of business connected with the systems.

CC GRAND JURY LAUDS ROAD SYSTEM

MARTINEZ, June 18.—Highway conditions generally throughout Contra Costa county are excellent, according to the report of the highway committee of the grand jury filed today. Several recommendations were made by the committee composed of the following: P. L. Harlow, chairman; F. N. Gordon, Richmond; S. P. Skow, San Pablo; Dr. H. Osborne, Bay Point; Wanda Muir Hanna, Martinez and M. J. Pimental, Byron.

The report as filed reads in part:

"Most of the highways and main country roads are in good condition, some being as good as any highway that can be found in the state. The second and less traveled roads, however, can not be as well recommended. We wish to call the attention of the road building authorities to a number of sharp turns and hazardous bits of road which are a menace to the traveling public:

"1. The Tunnel road at the bottom of the grade just west of the intersection of the Mofaga road.

"2. The steep approaches to a bridge on the Vine Hill-Muir station road.

"3. The crossing over the Sacramento-San Francisco railroad, just west of Bay Point on the Concord road.

"4. The right angle turn near the Concord cemetery.

"5. We particularly note that the road to Jersey and Bethel Islands is in a deplorable condition. The repair of this condition is urgent as the road is used by a school bus which carries children between the islands and the Iron School house. However, the Supervisors say that neither the bridge or road leading to it belong to the county and that they are powerless to act. Unless someone can be found who is willing and able to remedy the serious condition now existing, the road should be closed.

"We recommend that the old Briones road be opened for traffic and improved past the lagoons as it would shorten distance and save time between northern Contra Costa towns and Oakland, besides relieving congestion on other roads.

"In our judgment the Allowable Road signs on the San Pablo Dam road should be moved further south as in their present position they create an unfair discrimination between property owners.

"The county maintains a well equipped and efficiently managed garage for the care of county trucks and machinery which are kept in condition. An efficient system of accounting is maintained for labor and materials used in repairing county equipment in the garage. The committee recommends, however, inasmuch as a considerable part of the $38,000 budget allowance for this garage is expended for parts and materials, that a stricter supervision be maintained in the distribution of supplies and parts that are used elsewhere than in the garage by various county employees."

13 DEAD IN NEW ZEALAND

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, June 18.—(Wednesday)—(UP)—The death toll of this week's earthquake had reached 13 today and further damage had been done by succeeding tremors late last night and early this morning.

As news was drifting through from isolated districts terrible tales of tragedy were unfolded.

15 BELIEVED DEAD IN VIOLENT QUAKES

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, June 18.—(UP)—Landslides caused by a violent earthquake which shook all of South Island, took a toll of at least 15 lives, according to advices today describing the disaster in various villages.

The quakes and landslides, according to survivors in the worst stricken areas of South Island, were accompanied by a mighty muffled booming sound. The landslides buried four workmen in one valley on the north coast of South Island and two in another region. The other deaths were isolated cases.

Two airplanes left Christchurch en route to Westport, which was hard hit by the quakes. Wireless operators attempted to establish communication with the isolated town to learn the full extent of damage.

An airplane also was searching for five passengers in a motorbus in Buller gorge, near Blenheim, but no trace of the bus could be found.

The Matakaiti valley, three miles from Murchison was transformed into a lake when debris filled the gorge of the river a half a mile wide and a mile long. A hillside toppled over near Murchison, burying the farm of S. Bascys and killing his wife, daughter and son.

In the neighboring Mauria district, a hill turned over and buried Walter Holman's farm. Mrs. Holman and her child were buried under tons of rock.

The Gibson farm at Mauria was buried and Mrs. Gibson, her son, and another man killed.

The mining township of Lyell in the central Buller valley was completely isolated. Pick and shovel gangs were trying to open the road to the town of Nelson to get out the women and children, for whose safety considerable anxiety existed.

The danger from flood from the Buller river has been temporarily averted as the water slowly forced through the debris which dammed the river.

Water Gone

The town of Westport was without water and light. Railway lines in various parts of Westland were twisted into shapeless masses.

Traffic from Christ Church to the coast was halted. The Nelson line was out of service and most highways were entirely blocked.

The populace was attempting to erect temporary tents and tarpaulins in fields.

Two miners, William Chamley and Robert McAllister were killed near Westport.

Two hundred refugees from Murchison were billeted in Nelson and the district surrounding Murchison had been almost completely evacuated.

LOCAL CHURCH TO PRESENT CONCERT

The most illustrious artist that the First Baptist church has ever brought to Richmond will be heard in a concert in the church auditorium tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. As there will be no admission charge and the concert is open to the public it is expected that there will be a capacity attendance.

The artist is to be William Edward Johnson the noted baritone and he will be assisted by William W. Carruth, organist. Johnson recently returned from a tour of Europe where he was received with great enthusiasm and his tours of the United States have been highly successful.

When he appeared at the Professional Womens Club auditorium in Oakland the largest crowd was present that that auditorium has ever seated. He appeared in a concert at the Greek Theater at the University of California and though it was a cold crowd that gave him many rounds of applause and he was called on to repeat with many encores.

His concert at Santa Cruz was so-called as the musical event of the season. It is a rare privilege that the local church has in presenting this noted artist to the community and it is hoped that in as much as there is to be no admission charge that he will be greeted by a large crowd.

William W. Carruth, the organist who will assist in the concert is organist of the Scottish Rite San Francisco and is Dean of the Northern chapter of the American guild of Organists. In addition to his accompanying Johnson, he will play three organ numbers. A silver offering will be received during the concert.

Mission Day Fete To Be Held Sunday

The romance of California's early Mission days will be revived at historic San Juan Bautista, Sunday, June 23, at a picturesque celebration commemorating the founding of the old mission one hundred and thirty-two years ago. A pageant depicting the days of the early Spaniards and the activities of the Mission fathers among the Indians has been written for the event by Grace T. Mitchell and this will be enacted by students of the University of Santa Clara.

A musical program and a parade reminiscent of the Mission era will precede the pageant and a Spanish barbecue will be held in the rear of the mission during the afternoon.

To motorists traveling El Camino Real, Mission San Juan Bautista is probably one of the best-known of the mission chain, due to its convenient location just off the main highway where the motor route passes through San Juan, reports the touring bureau of the California State Automobile association. San Juan is ninety miles from San Francisco via U. S. 101 (El Camino Real) and nineteen miles beyond Salinas.

Agreement on the method of negotiating naval reduction must concern all interested world powers, the ambassador continued, and must have world sanction. He stressed the contention that statements of each country should obtain from their respective naval experts their definition of the "yardstick" by which reduction is to be measured.

But statesmen, he said, must be the ones to effect a compromise on reduction if negotiations are to succeed. This compromise must be made in terms understandable to "the man in the street" Dawes said.

It was the American ambassador's first public appearance in England, and his speech was in accord with the view of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, who discussed the situation with Dawes Sunday.

British educators are said to be fearful lest American talking pictures in their country will ruin the accent of British children. But this isn't anything to worry about. In all of the talkies we have heard it was impossible to locate the "his" anyway.

DAWES MAKES NAVAL CUT PLEA

LONDON, June 18.—(UP)—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes tonight laid down the United States proposal for reduction of naval arms through negotiations between statesmen rather than naval experts as "the next step to be taken towards world peace."

Speaking before guests at the pilgrim's society dinner in his honor, Dawes urged the adoption of President Hoover's "yardstick" method for solving the naval reduction problem and opened the way for "friends of world peace to move unitedly towards their objective with a clear understanding that any effort which is not united is liable to be ineffective."

What is the monthly cost?

A survey among our customers' accounts shows that the AVERAGE sum paid by our customers for cooking electrically, including lighting and small appliances, is but $7.76 per month! An amazingly low price for modern comfort, cleanliness and perfect baking.
